Beware Tart Mince Ples. York, Pa., Sipt. 6.—One of the very last acts of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the York county. Pa. Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which closed its sessions at Spring Grove Friday, was the defining of the succulent mince pie as an alcholic beversge, and as such to be abstained from by all signers of the union's pledge. It is true that the union recognized that there might be some so-called mince pies made, without including liquor among the many mysterious ingredients, and the ban is off these. Other beverages under this defination are sauces and ices containing anything alcoholic. In its resolutions the union called upon young women of the county to discountenance the use of cigarettes by young men.
